

CJP – Century Journals Project

世纪期刊

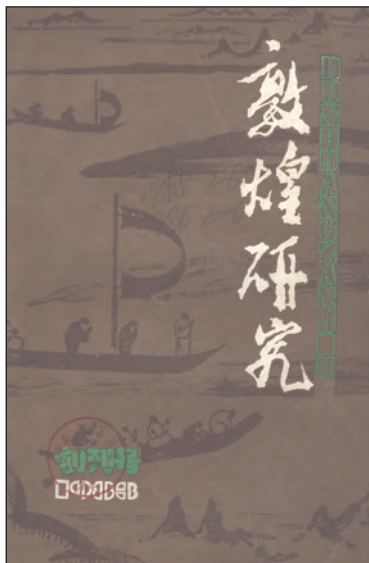

The single largest retrospective collection of journals from China.

CJP documents the economic, political, scientific, philosophical and cultural development of modern China with on-line access to the often hidden, always dynamic, life and times of one of the world's largest populations. In CJP researchers will be able to trace a cross-section of respected Chinese scholarship through the founding of the People's Republic of China, the Cultural Revolution, economic reform and the rapid ascent of China to the position it now occupies in the world. CJP integrates with the robust search tools of CAJ sharing all the benefits of the CNKI interface. This provides many types of cross reference between databases and journals in English as well as Chinese.
