

Election Campaign Materials

New from East View – Now Online

If elections are the lifeblood of democratic societies, then political campaigns are the pulse.

For researchers, elections yield more than ballot results: artifacts from campaigns—leaflets, handbills, brochures, websites, and other transitory items—embody the prevailing collective political sentiment, ideals and values of a nation.

Perhaps nowhere else does this ring truer than in the 15 former republics of the USSR, where there is a mixed bag of fledgling democracies and authoritarian, corrupt regimes.

East View is leading the digital preservation and online availability of political ephemera and official results from recent election campaigns in Russia, Ukraine, Belarus, Georgia, Armenia and South Ossetia.

This new series eliminates the need to acquire, catalog and shelf thousands of campaign materials that are fleeting by nature and challenging to obtain.

Examples of typical materials available by country and type of election (presidential or parliamentary) include:

- Candidate Biographies and Financial Disclosures
- Campaign Statements, Stickers and Advertisements
- Complaints of Fraud and Election Irregularities
- Election Programs and Political Party Charters
- Photographs from Campaign Events
- Political Posters and Brochures
- Precinct Address Lists and Protocols
- Voter Bulletins, Handouts and Leaflets

This wealth of unique primary sources is accessible via an easy-to-use interface where most objects are offered as searchable PDFs. Metadata displays the date, type and source of each document or object, all fully indexed with titles in original language and transliteration. Persistent URLs for each item enhances bibliographic retrieval.
