

Moscow Defense Brief Digital Archive

Get insight into the inner workings of Russia's military and defense industry from Moscow Defense Brief, an English-language journal published by a highly-regarded, Moscow-based, non-government think tank, the Centre for Analysis of Strategies and Technologies (CAST).

For more than a decade, Moscow Defense Brief has been an independent Russian source of unbiased analysis on all aspects of Russia's military policies and defense industry activities. Moscow Defense Brief goes beyond aggregation and commentary and delivers unique value, providing English-speaking professionals and researchers with expert perspective.

East View has indexed the complete run of Moscow Defense Brief and loaded full-image, full-text files onto its Universal Database platform, allowing researchers to navigate and find the articles they need quickly and easily. Users can research over ten years of Russian military and defense history, browse and view articles, and utilize the Universal Database cross-search page to research other resources at the same time.

Contact us at info@eastview.com to acquire the 2004-2016 Moscow Defense Brief Digital Archive for a one-time fee of $1,925. A 2017 current year subscription is also available from our secure East View Shop at <http://shop.eastview.com>.

The journal is an important resource for foreign governments, policy makers, political and economic experts, defense industry stakeholders, and a wide range of researchers interested in Russian and/or CIS affairs.
