Supporting Area Studies and Advancing Digital Humanities

The East View Global Press Archive® (GPA) is a groundbreaking program to create the most comprehensive collection of digital news sources from around the world. GPA is an outgrowth of a landmark initiative of Stanford Libraries and the Hoover Institution Library & Archives to digitally preserve and make more accessible thousands of original print newspaper publications collected by the Hoover Institution and now housed by Stanford Libraries.

For over 30 years, East View has been unlocking international news content and making it accessible to scholars across the globe. The GPA program continues this legacy by offering deep archives of a diverse range of predominantly non-Western newspaper titles, presented in full-image and full-text format on a customized platform specifically optimized for academic use.

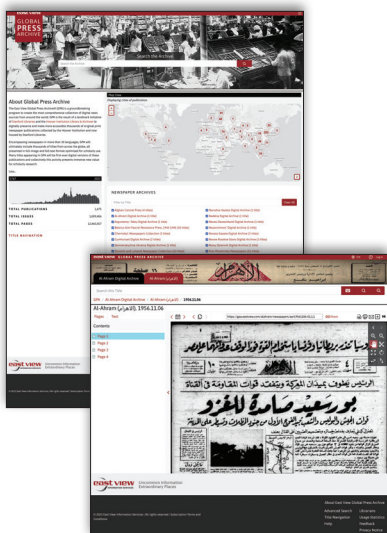

Why Global Press Archive?

Current scholarship is hindered by a general lack in the availability and accessibility of non-Western content. GPA fills this gap by offering deep archives of a diverse range of titles, digitized to exacting standards and made searchable for increased discoverability.

In creating GPA, East View is committed to ensuring that these valuable resources are preserved for future generations of scholars and providing a maximally comprehensive and geographically diverse portfolio of resources.

GPA is continuously growing and will ultimately include thousands of titles from across the globe in dozens of languages, representing a huge leap forward for Digital Humanities research. Wherever possible, titles are presented in their complete runs from the first issue. Many of these newspapers are being made available digitally and as comprehensive archives for the first time and the effort will collectively present immense new value for scholarly research.

GPA's mission is to bring uncommon information from extraordinary places to academic markets through a program focused on Preservation, Digitization, Discovery, and Access

Get to Know the GPA Platform

GPA content is delivered on a custom-built platform designed specifically for searching and display of full-image/full-text newspaper archives.

Platform Features:

- IP authentication and unlimited simultaneous users
- Usage statistics
- Cross-searching across all platform titles
- Full-image/full-text content
- Page-level digitization with hit-term highlighting
- Clipping and text extraction tools
- Crowdsourced text correction
- Citation generator in MLA, APA, Chicago, and RIS format
- Virtual keyboards for Arabic, Russian, and Turkish
- Multilingual UI functionality

From the start, the Global Press Archive program has embraced opportunities to widen access to these valuable resources via Open Access and other community-based models. This includes a highly successful partnership with the Center for Research Libraries from 2019–2023, which resulted in the release of 14 collections comprising nearly 2,500 global newspaper titles and over 6.2 million pages – including over 3.5 million pages of Open Access content.

The Area Studies Initiative is the Global Press Archive program's newest collaborative engagement with academic libraries to support the production of a diverse range of global newspaper archives that align with the collection goals and strategies of librarians from the five major area studies disciplines – African, Asian, Latin American, Middle Eastern, and Slavic.

The hallmarks of the Area Studies Initiative include:

- An annual offer of Open Access and in-copyright newspaper archives, including content that serves the needs of each of the five major area studies disciplines. See below for information on the 2025 Offer.
- A discount program for accounts that participate in the annual offer, to defray the costs of acquiring other in-copyright newspaper archives that are not part of the Area Studies Initiative program by area studies librarians.
- Additional offers released on a regular basis, also including a mix of Open Access and in-copyright newspaper archives, curated around the needs of specific area studies disciplines.

About East View

East View is a leading provider of native and translated foreign language information products and services, including databases, periodicals, books, and microforms from Eastern Europe, Asia, and the Middle East. We serve all geographies and many market segments, including academic institutions, government organizations, corporations, public and federal libraries, and law firms.

For over 30 years, East View has been unlocking international news content and making it accessible to scholars across the globe. The East View Global Press Archive® (GPA) program continues this legacy by offering deep archives of a diverse range of predominantly non-Western newspaper titles, presented in full-image and full-text format on a customized platform specifically optimized for academic use.

In creating GPA, East View is committed to ensuring that these valuable resources are preserved for future generations of scholars, and providing a maximally comprehensive and geographically diverse portfolio of resources.

Alongside GPA, East View offers your organization a variety of critical information resources. Over the last three decades we have developed a reliable and extensive acquisition network capable of satisfying the most sophisticated (as well as simple) information needs. Rely on us for uncommon information from extraordinary places, in all formats, in vernacular and English.

We look forward to serving you.
