East African Newspapers Collection

Three key newspapers from East Africa covering the period from the 1940s to the early 2000s offer the most authoritative chronicle on events: the widespread decline of colonialism as independence movements swelled and local, autonomous self-governance took hold throughout the region, including famine, drought, political uprisings, border disputes, and wars.

This collection is sponsored by the Center for Research Libraries. Read more: eastview.com/crl-ean

Daily Nation

(Kenya, 1962–2017)

Daily Nation first launched as a sister paper to the Swahili language Taifa in 1960 and quickly rose to be the highest circulating newspaper in Kenya. The newspaper covers the end of colonial rule, the rise of an independent Kenya, and the country's rapid growth in the modern era.

The Ethiopian Herald

(Ethiopia, 1943–2014)

Founded in 1943, The Ethiopian Herald is a government-owned newspaper run by the Ethiopian Press Agency. The English-language paper covers the country's transition from a monarchy through the communist era and into the present democratic republic.

The Monitor

(Uganda, 1993–2003)

Founded in 1992, The Monitor (relaunched as The Daily Monitor in 2005) is considered Uganda's leading independent newspaper. Among other domestic and international topics, the newspaper provides in-depth coverage of Yoweri Museveni's lengthy reign as president.

NEW! Die Transvaler

(South Africa, 1937–1990)

Die Transvaler (named after the ancestral "homeland" of Afrikaners), was established in 1937 to promote the cause of Afrikaner nationalism within the National Party. Edited by Hendrik Verwoerd—future prime minister and architect of the apartheid regime—Die Transvaler covered important historical events from an Afrikaner nationalist perspective.

Die Transvaler was notorious for its racism, antisemitism, opposition to South Africa's entry into World War II, and advocacy for the 1960 referendum to turn South Africa into a republic. The pinnacle of its influence was in the 1960s and early 1970s, under the governments of Afrikaner nationalists Hendrik Verwoerd (former editor of the paper) and B.J. Vorster.

The Die Transvaler Digital Archive is a valuable resource for scholars of history, politics, sociology, and media. It also represents a valuable historical preservation project and may be of interest to institutions that study war, genocide, apartheid, and the Holocaust—as well as truth and reconciliation commissions. COMING SOON! Daily Observer

(Liberia, From 1981)

An Open Access collection sponsored by the Center for Research Libraries

The Daily Observer (aka Liberian Observer) is an independent national newspaper, founded in 1981, chronicles all facets of life, culture, and political development in Liberia. Known for its investigative reporting and independent editorial stance, it has won several awards for its reporting, including the West Africa Media Excellence Award in 2017. The Daily Observer has a wide readership both within Liberia and among the Liberian diaspora around the world.

This complete archive makes the complete digital archive of the Daily Observer available in Open Access for the first time, serving to document a dynamic phase in the modern history of Liberia, from the late twentieth century to the present. Digitization Services: Access Your Archives Online

Today's students and faculty increasingly expect access to all the library's resources online at all hours of the day. It's in the DNA of libraries to provide their researchers with the best and most extensive access to information, but the nature of print or microform collections limits access to researchers unable to visit the library during open hours.

Librarians can now devote more time and energy to what they do best – preserving and promoting the intellectual output of their institution – with East View's service solutions, including digitization, preservation, conversion, hosting, and other value-added services.

Digitizing these unique collections helps libraries connect those resources with their researchers and researchers to your resources. Any content owned by the customer institution can be converted into a more accessible online resource through our comprehensive conversion service, which includes digitization and hosting.

East View, a trusted partner to academic libraries since 1989, offers an unmatched array of digital conversion and hosting services for libraries seeking to optimize their balance between physical and digital collections. Our extensive background in digitization's toughest terrain – converting primary source materials OCR'd in non-English, English, and other Roman scripts into full-image scans with searchable full text – makes East View the ideal partner to help libraries define metadata character sets and special collections for area studies.

Supporting you through the entire production cycle

At East View we understand that each project is unique. Our library consultants will work with you to provide the appropriate level of solutions. We offer a full range of services for digital conversion and hosting, including:

- Digitization and OCRing
- Sourcing materials to complete collections
- Custom metadata creation
- Rights diligence
- Project management
- Development of Open Access or Hybrid Open Access products
- Archival preservation
- Hosting for long-term online access
