OVERVIEW AND BACKGROUND

The 1993 census in Colombia was carried out from October 24 to December 20, 1993. Experimental censuses were conducted in San Andrés Non-Municipalized Area and Villavicencio in 1992. In urban areas, about 700,000 high school students underwent enumerator training as part of school curriculum, of which some 530,000 served as enumerators in the census. One firm contracted to enter census data reported errors in the data, and the preliminary results were criticized for possible errors. Subsequently, the Department began a results correction stage in December 1994. Revised results were released in July 1996. The UNFPA provided quality review assistance. The censored population was 33,109,840, while the adjusted population was 37,422,791.
