OVERVIEW AND BACKGROUND

The 2005 General Census in Colombia was carried out between May 22, 2005 and May 22, 2006. Experimental censuses were conducted between 1998 and 2003 in preparation. Unlike previous censuses, in addition to population, housing, and households, the 2005 General Census also enumerated economic establishments and agricultural units associated with rural dwellings. Other innovations included: georeferencing by GPS to locate rural dwelling; assignment of interviewers from within the communities they would enumerate; and transmission and daily consolidation of the census database via fiber optic connection. The total censused population was 41,468,384, and the total adjusted and reconciled population was 42,888,592.
