OVERVIEW AND BACKGROUND

The Tenth Population and Sixth Housing Census in Panama was carried out May 14, 2000 by the Statistics and Census Directorate. This census was the first to register information from the newly formed comarcas (regions) of Ngobe Buglé and Madungandí. The census findings characterize Panama as a developing country, with an aging, increasingly literate population. The birth rate in Panama decreased during the decade prior to the census, though unemployment increased slightly. 2,839,177 inhabitants were enumerated.
