OVERVIEW AND BACKGROUND

The Eleventh General Population and Housing Census of Venezuela took place October 20 to November 20, 1981. Enumeration was extended in certain rural areas through December 20th. The 1981 census was the second de jure census in the country's history. Experimental censuses were conducted in the city of La Victoria in Aragua State and the city of Valera in Trujillo State. 14,516,735 inhabitants were counted. The census was the first in Venezuela to include a post-census coverage survey, which determined an omission rate of 7.10 percent.
